Certificate and articles of incorporation of The 1972 Key, Inc.

Foreword

This edition of The Key is brought to you under most extraordinary circumstances. Early in 1971 it was decided to halve the amount of student service fees, from eighty dollars to forty. One casualty of that move was The Key. It was decided that the 1971 edition would be the last of a series of annuals dating back to 1912. However, there were those of us who refused to let the matter rest. Beginning in September, 1971 the administration was made aware of the fact that many people still wanted a yearbook. The school had budgeted no funds for one, however, so in February, 1972, The 1972 Key, Inc. became chartered as a non-profit corporation in the State of Iowa. (see photo of impressive documentation to that effect, above.) For an entire month a sales campaign was conducted, offering subscriptions to the book at $7.50, less than cost. (See photo of staff attempting to corral customers in the rotunda, below) Four hundred students, faculty, administrators, staff members and friends placed orders, making production of the book feasible. Then there were several months of layouts, photography and copy writing before The 1972 Key became a tangible reality. Having overcome numerous obstacles, we now present the story of the 1971-72 academic year at the University of Dubuque.

Dedication

Over the years it has been a tradition at the University of Dubuque to dedicate the yearbook to someone or something. A number of books were dedicated to presidents of the school, and one to the then-President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson. On occasion, the book has been dedicated to an idea (The Spirit of Progress, World Peace, even The Age of Aquarius.) or an accomplishment. (freeing the school from debt.) A few times there was no dedication at all.

The directors of the 1972 Key, however, felt it most appropriate to dedicate this volume to a member of the University community who went largely unheralded and unthanked by those he served for two decades.

Mr. LeRoy Vogt managed the University bookstore from 1951 until his reisgnation of that post early in 1972. He had been a student at Dubuque in the early forties, but left school to join the U.S. Navy during World War II. During his twenty-one years at the bookstore LeRoy maintained an active interest in the school and its people. He served as an advisor to the Mu Sigma Beta fraternity. He was active in the work of the First Presbyterian Church, the church founded by Peter Flury in 1847 and later led by Adrian VanVliet, founder of the University.

On behalf of twenty years of students and staff, we thank Mr. LeRoy Vogt for his selfless service to the University of Dubuque.

When completed in 1907, the Administration Building contained all functions of the German Presbyterian Theological School of the Northwest. Thirty years later it was re-named Steffens Hall in honor of Rev. Cornelius Steffens, president of the University 1908-24

1852-1972

Old Chapel Hall was added to the plans for Steffens Hall before ground-breaking. Its pipe organ, installed in 1910, was a gift from a Quaker.

Van Vliet Hall, erected in 1925-26 to house the theological seminary. Since 1969 it has housed University administrative offices, college faculty offices and classrooms.

The Ficke-Laird Library, built in 1965-66, includes the former seminary library. (left) It is named for Herman Styles Ficke, professor of English 1906-1950, and Donald Laird, class of 1919.

Severance Hall, currently a women's dormitory, was a 1911 gift of Cleveland philanthropist Louis Severance.

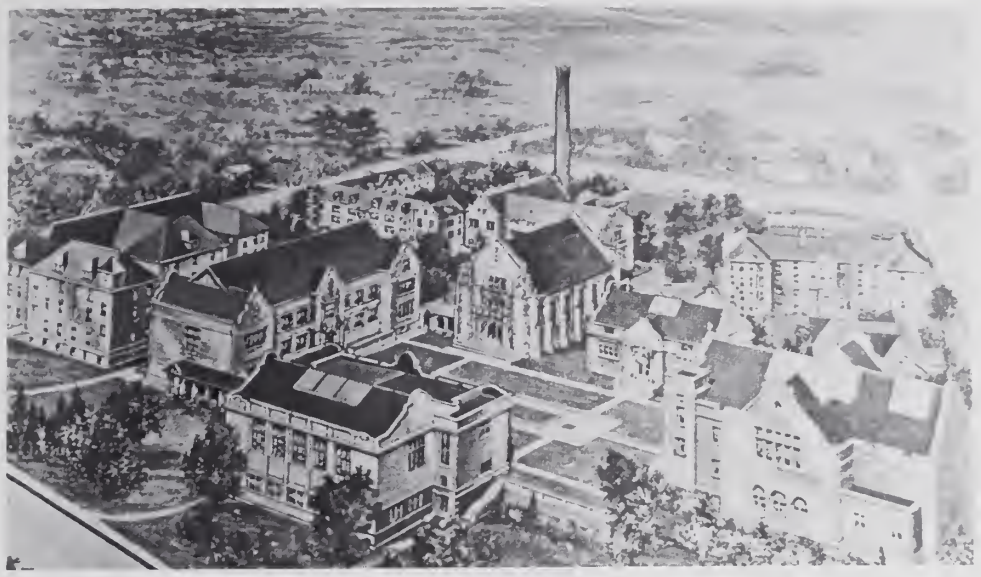
Whole Church



In 1914 the Chicago firm of Perkins, Fellows and Hamilton proposed the comprehensive campus plan shown in the rendering above. At that time Steffens, Severance and the heating plant were the only buildings on campus. The McCormick Gymnasium, built in 1914-15, was a gift of Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick of Chicago, whose husband had headed the farm implement firm which became International Harvester. Peters Commons was finished in 1916. Its erection was made possible by Mr. Frank Peters of St. Louis, a shoe manufacturer whose company became part of the International Shoe Company.

Peters Commons (opposite page, top) and McCormick Gymnasium (opposite page, bottom) would provide many surprises for their designers if they could see the buildings today. The Commons was extensively remodelled in 1963, and an addition which doubled the size of the Gym was completed early in 1967.

In addition to the Commons and the Gym, projected buildings were a science hall immediately behind Steffens, a new chapel where Algona street is, a library where the east end of Van Vliet sits, a president's home where the Ficke-Laird Library is, and an assembly hall near the present site of Smith Hall. Other priorities killed the plan.

Goldthorp Science Hall, built 1959-60, was a product of the post-sputnik science fervor in the U.S. It bears little resemblance to the projected science hall of 1914 (above), which would have been built around Old Chapel Hall.

Ruston Hall (right), is the home of the UD Speech and Drama department. Originally named Benjamin Hall, the structure for many years housed the music department and the Dubuque Academy of Music. Music is now accommodated in Kleine Hall and Groff Hall (below), named for past music instructors at the University.

HISTORY

Reverend Peter Flury

The University: Its Foundations

The beginnings of theological education in Dubuque were centered around such dedicated men as Peter Flury and the Reverend Jean Baptiste Madoulet.

On October 13, 1846, Pastor Peter Flury was commissioned by the American Home Missionary Society to work among the Germans at Dubuque, the seat of the diocese under Bishop Loras. Born in Switzerland October 30, 1804, he founded a "higher education institution-a teacher seminary" before resigning his pastorate and emigrating to America. On Christmas day, 1847 Flury organized a German Evangelical Church at Dubuque with 35 members and by the next summer built the first German church at ninth and Iowa streets for $870. But despite his apparent success, Flury's work was rapidly drawing to a close. When his wife became ill and later died, Pastor Flury left Dubuque for Milwaukee, January 13, 1849, where he remained for a short time and then returned to his home in Saas, Switzerland.

Shorlty thereafter, Rev. Jean Baptiste Madoulet began preaching to the members of the German Evangelical Church. Born near Dusseldorf in 1810, Madoulet took up his work in earnest. Though he was sincere and hardworking, opposition was stirring. On July 4, 1849 when Madoulet held services "to render thanks to God for American Liberty..." a "band of annemies of Christ" who professed "Rationalism" disrupted the meeting and threatened Madoulet. The following year worse incidents happened until in October, 1851, Jean Baptiste Madoulet sent his last report to the American Home Missionary Society as their German missionary at Dubuque.

Adrian Van Vliet

Flury and Van Vliet

The Pastorate at Dubuque was to remain vacant only a short time. Adrain Van Vliet, the founder of the University of Dubuque, was to take up his work at that place. Born in Holland on March 28, 1809, Van Vliet migrated to America in August, 1847 in the hope of escaping the religious controversy and persecution occuring in Holland at that time. Arriving in New York on September 1, 1847, he soon settled in St. Louis and later at Galena.

Illness and tragedy was Van Vliet's lot in Galena. Soon after his arrival he became so ill with "rheumatism in the head" that he was bedfast for three months. In the meantime his wife took sick and soon died. Having buried his wife, he faced the world alone, ill, and sorrowful.

As soon as his illness would allow, Van Vliet left Galena and moved to Platteville, Wisconsin. Here he studied and was ordained into the ministry.

In 1852, following his assignment to the German Evangelical Church at Dubuque, Van Vliet began to teach two young men to become German Ministers in the study of his home. These two men, A. Kolb and Jacob Kolb, remained under his direction until 1854 and 1856 respectively so that both of them entered the ministry as Presbyterian ministers. In the year 1856, Van Vliet led his congregation to sell their church property and erect another church at a new location. On the corner of seventeenth and Iowa streets they built a stone church covering it inside and outside with plaster which was painted blue. As long as it stood it was known as the "Blue Church". Into this new building, before the snows of winter fell, the congregation and the pastor moved.

In 1864, Van Vliet gave both the seminary and the power to govern it to the Presbyteries of Dubuque and Dane, Wisconsin. The new school established by this joint action was officially named "The German Theological School of the North West". It was here that Adrian Van Vliet would labor as a missionary, preacher, and a teacher for the last seven years of his life. Tuberculosis, which he had contracted earlier in life, gradually undermined his strength until his death on May 9, 1871.

Jacob Conzett

After Adrian Van Vliet's death, Jacob Conzett was elected to head the small school. Jacob Conzett was born in Switzerland on January 17, 1834. At the age of twelve, he migrated with his parents to America.

He finished his theological training in 1858 after being influenced by Adrian Van Vliet. The work for which Conzett was chosen was not easy to perform. Van Vliet had throughly stamped his mind, character, and personality upon the school and the Dubuque German congregation. His successor would have to win the confidence and support of the students and of the church members. But Conzett was not a man of great tact or winning adroitness. His manner was direct. His dominating personality bent circumstances to his will or broke them in the process.

Despite opposition to him, Conzett pushed forward. Through negotiations with the Episcopal Church, he purchased the Seventeenth Street Building, located across the street from the Old Blue Church, on March 15, 1872 for $10,000. This solved the overcrowded conditions which had been a problem for some time but not the antagonism of Conzett's enemies. His detractors created distrust in the mind of his assistant teacher until he resigned. The students were poisoned against Conzett until all but two left Dubuque to go to other seminaries. It appeared that the end had come to the German Presbyterian Theological School of the Northwest. Only the Board of Trustees retained their faith in him and encouraged him to go on. Each year the attendance rose until in 1881 there were twenty-five students. Confident that he had been successful, Jacob Conzett resigned to return to Pastoral work.

Godfrey Moery

A.J. Schlaeger

Little change took place in the school during the decade from 1880 to 1891. There were at the latter date four professors and thirty-three students, and the curriculum had changed only to the extent of adding Homiletics and increasing the hours of instruction in German, Latin, Hebrew, and Greek. During this period of slow expansion, three men headed the school-Godfrey Moery, a member of the first graduating class, returned to teach in the school. He acted as Chairman of the Faculty until A.J. Schlaeger assumed control of the school from 1881 to 1888. Schlaeger was also the first Chairman of the Faculty to call himself president of the school. This title he assumed, although unofficially, from 1886 to 1888. Following Schlaeger as administrator was Dr. Adam McClelland. The "beloved blind professor of Dubuque" served the school for 23 years as professor of Church History and Philosophy. Between 1892 and 1894, the Chairmanship revolved monthly between Godfrey Moery, Adam McClelland and A. Vanderlippe.

Designed by John Spencer, who also drew the plans for Severance Hall, the building cost $150,000 to erect with $25,000 of the money donated by Andrew Carnegie.

After the administration of Adam McClelland, William O. Ruston became Chairman of the Faculty and in 1904 became the first official president of the school. The first all-English-speaking professor, he represented the changing character of the school which up until his appointment in 1896 had conducted all class lessons exclusively in German.

Another factor which would radically change the atmosphere of the institution was the appointment by the Board of Directors of a financial secretary in 1901. The man they chose was Rev. Cornelius Steffens.

Cornelius Martin Steffens was born in Germany in 1864 and migrated to America with his parents at the age of four. His father, Rev. Nicholas M. Steffens, engaged in missionary work and later became Chairman of the Faculty of the German Presbyterian Theological School of the Northwest from 1896 to 1898 and again from 1901 to 1903. Cornelius Steffens' association with the school, while his father was professor of Theology, had made a strong appeal to him.

From February 1, 1902 to April 30, 1903, Cornelius M. Steffens studied, planned, and worked. During the school year 1903-1904, C.M. Steffens' efforts to raise money were successful. The net total was $22,705. Over sixteen thousand dollars had been added to the permanent investment fund. This was indeed a "New Era" and the financial secretary seized upon it to launch a new and untried program of physical and educational expansion. The major point of his expansion program was the relocation of the German Presbyterian Theological school of the Northwest and while at one time the possibility of moving to La Crosse, Wisconsin was considered, it was finally decided to relocate the school on a six acre plot of land in West Dubuque purchased in 1905.

The reluctance of some Board members to support the ambitious program completed in 1907 was dispelled by Steffens' ability to secure money.

In 1908, Cornelius M. Steffens became president of the school. Steffens' administration was an eventful one, filled with growth and prosperity for the college. In Steffens' first year as President, Frank H. Peters, founder of the Peters Shoe Company, St. Louis, which later became part of the International Shoe Company, donated funds for the erection of the College Chapel. In 1911, Abraham Slimmer, a religious-minded Hebrew, gave $80,000 towards the construction of the Heating plant.

During this same period the student body had grown from twenty-four to two hundred ninety-eight. Twenty-four professors and six instructors were engaged to teach in the Academy, the College, and the Seminary.

Because of the sharp increase in the number of students enrolled at the college, Steffens once again looked for donations in order to build a dormitory. Louis H. Severance of Cleveland, Ohio, became interested in the cause and in 1911 gave the funds to erect Severance Hall.

Peters Commons Circa 1918

Another important event that occurred in 1911 was the admission of the first women students. Frieda R. Grieder, who enrolled in that year, became the first female graduate in the history of the school in 1916. In 1914, Nettie Fowler McCormick, wife of the president of the Chicago Harvester Company, later International Harvester, built a modern gymnasium. In 1913, the college department was recognized by the Iowa State Board of Education as doing high grade work. Frank H. Peters again donated money in 1916, this time for the erection of Peters Commons, the college dinning hall.

In 1918, the School received world-wide acclaim through one of its athletes. Solomon Butler established National records in both High School and College in track and field. At Paris in 1919, he set a world record in broadjumping, which was disallowed. Butler in 1920 represented the United States at the Olympic Games in Antwerp.

Steffens resigned as president in 1924, and Karl F. Wettstone followed him as Chief Administrator of the University.

Karl F. Wettstone

Van Vliet Hall in 1926

Dedicated on October 13, 1926, most of the $80,000 cost of construction was paid by the Synod of the West and the family of Frank H. Peters.

During Wettstone's term as President, Van Vliet Hall was built. Intended as a new home for the Seminary and of the school of Religion, it was paid for enitrely from funds provided by the Synod of the West. When on May 29,1925, President Karl F. Wettstone publicy announced his intention of recommending to the school's Board of Directors, that all intercollegiate athletics be abolished at the University of Dubuque, the news sped out from Dubuque to every part of the country, and precipitated nation-wide newspaper and editorial comment, and a flood of mail that contained both scathing criticism and hearty commendation. Soon after making his recommendation to the Board, Wettstone became ill and took a leave of absence. Consequently, the recommendation was never resolved.

After Wettstone's resignation on September 1, 1927, William B. Zuker, who joined the faculty in 1921 as professor of chemistry, was appointed Acting President. He held this position until Paul H. Buchholz became President of the College in May, 1929. Buchholz, an alumnus, headed the University during the darkest days of the Depression and in 1935, resigned his post as President.

Dr. Dale D. Welch

Dr. Zuker carried the duties of Acting President until the arrival of Dr. Dale D. Welch. Welch assumed the position of president on April 1, 1936. The condition of the University at that time was critical. There were two hundred students, a debt of $250,000 and the college was unaccredited. However, through his unceasing efforts, by 1947 there were six hundred fifty students, the University was free from debt, and both the college and the seminary were fully accredited.

During Dr. Welch's administration, the Honorary Rector program was instituted with Dr. Thomas Mann, famed German novelist and Nobel prize winner, the first elected. Among other notable men during the Welch years were Dr. Harold E. Stassen, Dr. E. Stanley Jones, Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, and Mr. Sumner Welles. All were Honorary Rectors between 1939 and 1947.

The Jacob Conzett Lounge was built during the summer of 1941 and the Navy V-12 Squad finished off the attic of Steffens Hall which was then used for living quarters. At one point during World War Two, there were two hundred fifty Navy men living in Steffens Hall alone. Because of the tremendous increase in the number of students at that time, the curricula were completely overhauled and many new professors were added.

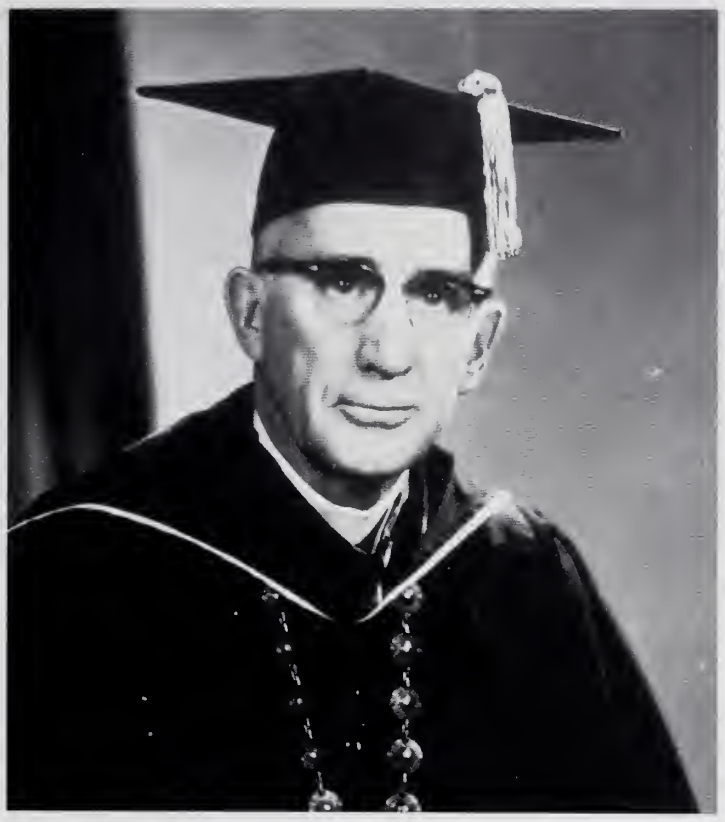
Dr. Samuel S. George

Part of the Centennial services which occured in 1952 was the dedication of this memorial shaft at the grave of founder Adrian Van Vliet.

Dr. Rollo C. LaPorte

On September 1, 1947, Dr. Welch resigned as president of the University of Dubuque and Dr. Samuel George became Acting President. Dr. Rollo LaPorte, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Phoenix, Arizona, came to the University in April, 1948. Dr. LaPorte's administration was characterized by further revision of the curricula and numerous other developments including improvements to Chalmers Field, the addition of a cinder track, a practice football field and other improvements to the physical education plant. Other additions to the campus included a new Student Union which was a gift of Edwin B. Lindsay, life member of the Board of Directors, and the purchase of the property and buildings of the old Irving School. With the coming of Dr. Gaylord M. Couchman, the University was to enter new and prosperous times.

Given by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lindsay of Davenport, the Old Oak Room served as the Student Union for ten years.



Dr. Gaylord M. Couchman

Previously the pastor of Westminster Church in Dubuque, Dr. Couchman stepped into his position as president in April, 1953. At the time of his inauguration, the Board of Directors was in the process of reviving the annual Current Expense Campaign that was dropped for several years. Within one year of Couchman's administration, personal gifts totaled $142,000; an increase of $55,000 over the previous year. Fund raising and expansion were the keynotes of the Couchman years. In January, 1955, a 12-acre tract of land adjoining Chalmers Field had been purchased for the University through the generosity of Dubuque business and industrial leaders. Record enrollment in the seminary in 1955 prompted the contruction of a new seminary library building and the need for additional residence hall facilities. Both problems were met by 1956 with the addition of a new library and Smith Hall, which was named in honor of Wilbur L. Smith, whose widow gave $50,000 gift toward its completion.

The new program of expansion was just beginning, however. In June of 1957, Mrs. Effie Goldthorp, widow of a prominent Chicago dentist, donated $100,000 towards the construction of a new science building. Also in that year, enrollment was up by ten per cent over the year before, and the seminary enrollment reached one hundred eighteen, the largest student body in its history up until that time.

By the close of the 1950's, the new science hall was completed, the existing residence hall facilities were renovated, a foreign language laboratory was added, and a Christian Education lab was constructed. As the University entered the 1960's, the expansion plan was greatly accelerated.

In early May, 1961, University of Dubuque administrative officials were notified of the approval of a $630,000 loan from the U.S. Housing and Home Finance Agency for construction of a women's residence hall. On May 11,1963, Aitchison Hall, named for Anna M. Aitchison who had been an English instructor at the school since 1923, was formally dedicated. That same year, Peters Commons was extensively remodeled including a new larger Student Union.

Ficke-Laird Library, dedicated in March, 1967, was named for Donald Laird, class of 1919 and Dr. Herman Styles Ficke, professor of English from 1906 to 1950.

The University received confirmation of a loan of $465,000 by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare on February 19,1965 for the construction of a new college library. The loan was received by means of the Higher Education Facilities Act and at the time U.D. was one of the first institutions to be granted such a loan. The school then began to solicit for donations to help finance the remainder of the cost. The largest single contribution was made by Dr. and Mrs. Donald A. Laird, of Lafayette, Ind. Laird, a 1919 alumnus of the University, gave $100,000 to the library fund. The library was part of a $6 million expansion program being carried out at that time. Before the library was completed, construction on a new $600,000 men's dormitory was begun, on September 13, 1965. The loan came from the Community Facilities Administration of the Housing and Home Finance Agency with the largest contribution received from David B. Cassat, a member of the Board of Directors since 1936 and President of the Interstate Finance Corporation. 1966 saw the construction of a large addition to McCormick Gymnasium which greatly expanded its interior space.

Dr. Gaylord M. Couchman stepped down from the Presidency on July 1,1967, leaving behind him an impressive record of achievements. During his tenure the University had grown from an enrollment of approximately 500 in 1953 to 900 at the time of his resignation with the additions of a new science hall, a student union, four residence halls for 520 students, two new libraries, a rebuilt and enlarged gymnasium, and a seminary married students' quarters.

William G. Chalmers

George Lindquist
Acting President 1970

Mr. William G. Chalmers became the eighth official President of the University of Dubuque on August 1,1967. Under Chalmers, the enrollment again increased sharply, and new cultural features were added to the campus. Marc Connelly, noted Pulitzer Prize winning playwright, gave the inaugural speech of the A.D. Donnell lecture series on December 1,1967. The old residence of the University President at 1904 University Avenue was opened on February 9,1969 as the college's art center. Under Chalmers' administration, the position of University Marshal was created with the appointment of Dr. George B. Ehlhardt, who had been librarian of the Dubuque Theological Seminary since 1954.

The Tri-College exchange program of professors and students among Clarke, Loras College and the University was also inaugurated under President Chalmers. In 1970, William G. Chalmers resigned the Presidency, leaving behind new campus life features, a record college and seminary enrollment, and an enlarged and improved curriculum.

George W. Lindquist, a long standing Board of Directors member, assumed the office of Acting President until the appointment of Dr. Walter F. Peterson in late 1970.

For many years the Dubuque Presbyterian Press was an independent corporation which operated a bookstore and print shop at 2108 University avenue. In 1964 the printing business was terminated, but the University Bookstore continued.

Early in 1972 the University of Dubuque, the majority stockholder of the bookstore, acquired all outstanding stock in the business and reorganized it as a non-profit corporation.

LeRoy Vogt (left), manager of the bookstore for more than twenty years, left that post in March, 1972. Miss Jeanette Thompson (below) assumed that post upon LeRoy's departure. WGVU

Mose Washington announces the next record on his Soul show.

Gary Owens gives the daily news report.

With studios located on the top floor of Peters Commons, WGVU signed on thei air in Dec. 1964, occupying new studios designed when the Commons was renovated in 1963. It succeeded KUDD, which had operated since 1952 with what would now be considered quite primitive equipment. All of this was an outgrowth of broadcasting activities at U.D. which went back at least to 1938, when broadcasts originating from Steffens Hall were carried over WKBB (now WDBQ).

W. Michael Neilson, first semester editor of The Que.

The Que, the student newspaper at the University of Dubuque, has been at odds with the administration since a censorship dispute arose over coverage of campus appearances by Rev. Fry of Chicago's First Presbyterian Church, almost three years ago. The Que was at that time prevented from quoting four-letter words used by Fry, an outspoken supporter of the Black P. Stone Nation.

This year the administration failed to fund the Que at all. However, Mike Neilson, first semester editor, secured sufficient funding from S.G.A. to cover printing expenses for the entire year.

Second semester, under George Eklund, John Klauer and Bob Prochaska, The Que lashed out viciously against President Peterson and Dean Weeks, criticizing policies on faculty retention.

Whether or not the Que will publish next year remains questionable, as funding has not been reinstated.

THE 1972 KEY, INC.

There will, in all probability, be no 1973 Key. Last year funding for the yearbook was terminated. When the editors of this volume indicated interest in publishing a '72 book, the administrative reaction ranged from indifference to outright opposition. Eventually support was forthcoming from all sectors but no money. The 1972 Key, Inc., a non-profit corporation, was formed to publish this book.

In spite of increased student service fees for 1972-73, no funds have been allocated for a yearbook by SGA or Union Board.

Take good care of this book. It may have to last a long time.

Jane Belcher, Karen Hancher, Frank Klohn and Vicki Dare.

The University Singers perform for a tri-state audience on channel 40, KDUB-TV.

University Singers

The University Singers, a forty-voice vocal group, is under the direction of Dennis Williams. During the past year the group was quite active and performed a variety of material. Their appearances included a University fund-raising dinner in October, the Dubuque Recreation Department banquet at the Flora Park Barn, in November, an S.R.O. Christmas Concert at Westminster Presbyterian Church, a December spot on local ABC affiliate KDUB-TV, Christmas caroling at Area Residential Care, Hillcrest and retirement homes, another concert at Westminster in February, a concert for three Presbyterian congregations in Davenport during March, a combined Lenten Concert with the Westminster church choir, a Madrigal concert for the tenth anniversary of the tri-seminary effort at Aquinas Institute in May, and an Outdoor Pops Concert on the quadrangle in May.

University Players

Members of the University Players pose in front of Ruston Hall with Dr. Ray Thompson.

The University Players produced numerous major and minor plays throughout the year and during the summer as well, under the direction of Dr. Raymond Thompson. The Ugly Duckling theatre in Steffens Hall has been created over a period of three years from what was once the college library, across from the Jacob Conzett Lounge.

Extraordinary posters and programs for the various plays came from the pen of former Californian Lance Bonnet.

Among this year's productions were "Tartuffe," "Escurial," and "The Diary of Adam and Eve."

Summer Theatre plays were "A View From The Bridge," "She Loves Me," and "A Thousand Clowns."

Union Board Executive Committee

The present Student Government Association is what is left of a large, over-structured complex of committees and sub-committees which was organized in 1968. Most of the smaller branches have died or are dormant, leaving the three groups pictured here, particularly Union Board, with a great deal of money and, potentially, a great deal of power.

A survey taken early in 1972 showed that most students, especially commuters, did not feel they were getting their money's worth from student service fees, most of which is administered by SGA and Union Board.

Whether or not student government will become more responsive to the expressed interests and desires of the entire student population remains to be seen. As Forum has become the major channel for student participation in the politics of the campus, SGA is left to see to the cultural, recreational and creative life of the school. There is great potential and sufficient capital.

During the past year film committee provided from one to three nights per week of free or low-cost celluloid entertainment in addition to the offerings of nine commercial indoor and outdoor theaters in Dubuque.

Union Board sponsored three concerts, intramurals, a snow sculpture contest and a carnival.

UD also particiapted in a tri-college ski trip to Galena.

Student "P.X."

The "Student PX" is a sort of general store for UD students. Located in a room in the northeast corner of the basement of Peters Commons which has served at various times as TV Lounge, Union Board Office, Arts & Crafts Room and for storage, the PX is run by students, who receive Business Administration credit for their work. It proved so successful the Oak Room snack bar has also been placed under student management.

The PX carries paperback books, magazines, toiletries and other sundry items. It is designed to complement, not compete with, the University Bookstore.

Severance Hall House Council

At one time every UD dormitory had an active house council, which legislated and enforced rules for conduct and visitation, and planned physical improvements to the dorm, as well as sponsoring social activities for the residents.

Today most dorms have no house council at all, or one which exists in name only. Not so in Severance Hall. Since Severance once again became a women's dorm in 1967 its house council has been quite active in all areas, setting an example for other dorms.

Again this year, the girls of Severance enjoyed the advantages of the work of this group: parties, holiday decorations and a new color television in the main lounge.

The New Yorkers are a new group this year. Lacking official university sanction, this group nonetheless has all the trappings of the other frats on campus. Most members live on second floor Cassat, and most are natives of New York, many coming from Long Island. They are active in intramurals, and have distinctive orange and blue T-shirts with a caricature of the statue of liberty extending a clenched fist emblazoned upon them. During the spring members staged some counter-Hell Week activities.

Seated: Craig Travis, Bill Place, Don Browning, Ken Scholz. Standing: Bob Lament, Bruce Weindenburner, Richard Berg, Mark Middleton, Dave Kraker, Tom Edens, Keith Wulfinger, Tony Iadanza.

"I've got the Dubuque Blues every night and day . . .

DUBUQUE BLUES

Do you remember Dubuque?
Have you even heard of that?
It's half between New York and California.
There is a highway in and back
Plus an active railroad track
And the west side of the city
Sells no liquor.
And I can't recall the instances
That keep it in my thoughts
City parks or nighttime girls
Or ancient limestone rocks
Writing songs of rights and wrongs
And buying penny loafer shoes
Oh, definitely, most certainly
I've got the Dubuque blues.
Do you remember Anna Sue?
Have you even heard of that?
She went from Tennessee
To Minnesota
She was thirteen and I was ten
As the gentle southern wind
Would make the moonlight shatter
Through the maples.
And I can recall the summers
That we spent among the trees
When there were no Monday bummers
To blow my life of ease
Writing songs of rights and wrongs
And buying penny loafer shoes
Oh, definitely, most certainly
I've got the Dubuque blues.
Now the Dubuque blues ain't news
To anybody
Who knows sadness is the sweetest
Of the pains
Who can tell with just a look
That it's all over
And who never cry
Well, almost never cry.
Do you remember nickel Cokes?
Have you even heard of that?
They're half between the forties and tomorrow.
I once considered it my home
Now I know I'll always roam
And if I pass through there again
I will be lucky
And I can recall the instances
They hung it in my thoughts
And I'm sure they're as important
As the feelings that they brought
Writing songs of rights and wrongs
And buying penny loafer shoes
Oh, definitely, most certainly
I've got the Dubuque blues.

The 1972 Key, Inc. and each of its subscribers owes a great deal to the generosity of the Patrons and Donors names above. Without their financial backing this book could not have been produced. They have, in their support of this independent project, set an example worthy of emulation.

Acknowledgements

As we send the final pages of the 1972 Key to the printer, it is with mixed feelings. We are aware that, in some respects, we have fallen short of our goals. However, we are proud of this book, which was produced in spite of apathy, opposition and overwhelming odds. We sincerely hope that its existence will persuade the administration and the SGA/Union Board of its worth and move them to restore funding and recruit a staff immediately to begin production of the 1973 Key.

Many individuals have helped in one capacity or another to make this volume a reality. We should like to thank each of them and mention as many as possible individually:

Our thanks to Mildred Barnes, Assistant Business Manager, who agreed to allow students to charge their yearbooks to their university accounts; Dr. Charles Tyrrell, who loaned us a copy stand and camera; Robert "Ace" Burghardt, who demonstrated his faith in us by being first to order a '72 Key; Mr. William Berg, who loaned us the Goldthorp Hall darkroom facilities; Mary Davis, who typed and mimeographed most of our publicity material; Dr. Walter Peterson, who cut through a lot of bureaucratic red tape for us; Mrs. JoAnn Scannell, who donated time and effort on letters to prospective patrons; Mr. Ken Pease, who loaned us many valuable reference materials and constantly encouraged us to press on; Mrs. George Yokum and Mrs. Emery Ransford, who allowed us to stuff "freebies" in mailboxes, and who saw that the Key's mail reached us; Betty Strickland, who ran several multilith jobs and metered more postage than we care to remember; William Vierling, who allowed us to monopolize his minolta for several months; Leroy Vogt, who provided us with both supplies and support; Mr. Ben Tate, who advised us to incorporate and saw that we got office space; Mr. E. Marshall Thomas and Mr. Gary K. Norby of O'Connor, Thomas, Wright, Hammer & Bertsch, who drew up our articles of incorporation; Mr. Fred Stoeker, our American Yearbook representative and Mr. Charles Galvani, our plant consultant in Visalia; Mr. Willard Rand, Mrs. Elaine Hird and Jim Lattie of the Information Services office, who supplied us with numerous prints; and Dr. Gaylord Couchman, Dr. Dale Welch, Mr. Russ Nash, The Sociology Club, and everyone else who supported and encouraged us.

Individually and collectively these persons along with the entire Key staff have personified the motto of the University of Dubuque:

"Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit."
